College Networks

College is the first level of higher education.

Association des collèges privés du Québec (ACPQ) – Private

» acpq.net

The subsidized private college network is made up of 21 non-profit institutions, spread over several regions and based on a range of models.

These colleges offer 2-year pre-university programs as well as 3-year technical programs.

Instruction is offered mainly in French, however, some colleges offer instruction in English or bilingual training.

Subsidized private colleges are well-known for the quality of the support they offer students and for their high success rates.

These colleges are active internationally and welcome many students from a variety of countries.

Les Cégeps du Québec – Public

» cegepsquebec.ca

CEGEPs are public higher education institutions offering innovative training pathways, where technical career and pre-university programs co-exist. Strongly connected to professional communities, CEGEPs prepare students to enter the workforce straightaway or for higher levels of studies. Spread across Québec, our 48 institutions offer over 120 training programs and welcome each year roughly 200,000 students. Our system also comprises 55 applied research centers supporting thousands of public and private companies, including SMEs through applied research. CEGEPs are also internationally active through mobility and expertise programs.
